On Speaking Terms.

When little Ernest was out walking with his mother one day he suddenly pointed to a lady across the road and said:

"Oh, mamma, I know that lady over there! She often speaks to me."
"Does she really, darling?" answered the mother. "And what does she say?"

"She—she—well, she usually says, 'Don't you dare to throw stones at my dog again, you little wretch!'"

Patriotic.

"He's certainly patriotic."
"That so? In what way?"
"He's spending as little money as possible on himself."
"Economizing, eh?"

"Yes. He's even brought himself to the point where he'll wear the neckties his wife's relatives gave him instead of buying new ones."

The Reason.

Lady—Why did you leave your last place?

Maid—Because the lady's husband kissed me.

Lady—And didn't you like it?

Maid—Oh, I didn't mind, but the mistress didn't like it.

A Proxy.

A gentleman winked at a bright little boy on the car the other day. The youngster tried to return his salute, but both eyes persisted in shutting. "Mamma," he finally said to a nice looking woman by his side, "wink at that man."

MEAN ADVANTAGE OF HIM.

Lord Algy—Why did you accede to your valet's demands?
Lord Arthur—He threatened to strike and quit just when I was half dressed, you know.

Five Minute Chats on Our Presidents

By JAMES MORGAN

(Copyright, 1920, by James Morgan.)

AN IMMIGRANT'S SON

1767—March 15, Andrew Jackson, son born in Union county, N. C.

1781—Taken prisoner by the British.

1791—Married Mrs. Rachel Donelson Robards.

1806—Killed Charles Dickinson in a duel.

1815—January 8, won the Battle of New Orleans.

1817—Put down the Seminole Indians in Florida.

1821—Governor of the territory of Florida.

ANDREW JACKSON, the unlettered backwoodsman, treading at the heels of John Quincy Adams, the most cultured in all the line, presents the sharpest contrast to be seen in the procession of presidents.

The first president born in a log cabin, Jackson could not claim as his own even that lowly dwelling in the North Carolina forest, but entered the world homeless and fatherless. Sprung from poor Irish immigrants, his parents had been in the country only two years when the father sank into an unmarked grave a few days before Andrew's birth, leaving his family without a roof or an acre.

No other among American leaders received from the War of Independence such a legacy of bitter memories as it bequeathed to Jackson. That savage struggle between Whig and Tory swept away his brave mother and both of his brothers; scattered his kindred and left him, at fifteen, alone in the world.

A ragged, roving wail of the Revolution, he grew up as wild as a woad. With no hand above him, his high spirits led him into the temptations of his primitive world, whose social standards were 200 years behind the times. Drinking and carousing, gambling, cock fighting and horse racing, young Jackson never took a dare, the rustic sport once snaking his horse and his all on a throw of the dice. A bully among rowdies, he went his roystering way along a road that is not to be laid down on the map of conduct as a course to the White House.

As he rose from a chore boy and a saddler's apprentice to be a lawyer and a judge of the Supreme court of Tennessee, he cast aside the dissipations of his careless youth, but he never lost the spirit of the clansman or subdued his ungovernable temper.

A bare catalog of his quarrels and fights is too long to be given here. In most of them he was fired with the conviction that he was defending the name of his wife. This had been brought into question only by his own characteristic imprudence, when he fell in love with his landlady's daughter, while she was yet married to another, and when he rashly wed her without waiting to verify the mere rumor that her offended husband had obtained a divorce in a neighboring state.

After two years of wedded life, the too hasty couple learned that the woman's first marriage had only just been dissolved and they had to make a spectacle of themselves as they went through another ceremony in order to be united in lawful bonds.

Because his own impulsive conduct had exposed his honest, devoted wife to the slanderous tongues of the gossips, Jackson was all the more sensitive to her sufferings. For sneering at her over a bar one man was stood up at 24 paces and shot to death by the avenging husband, who kept his pistols in perfect condition through 37 years, as Barton says, for anyone who dared breathe her name except in honor.

Even at the sober age of forty-six, Jackson plunged into a tavern brawl at Nashville with Thomas H. Benton, afterward the distinguished senator from Missouri, and was shattered for life by two balls and a slug which Benton's brother shot into his back. That was his last personal altercation. In a few weeks he was called from his bed of pain to take part in a public altercation between the United States and Great Britain and, with his arm still in a sling, he rose to do battle for his country.

A CARELESS DOLL.

The conversation in the lobby of a Washington hotel turned to the subject of dodging responsibility, when this anecdote was fittingly related by Representative Frank D. Scott of Michigan:

Some time since a fond mother returned from an afternoon call and found her five-year-old daughter huddled up in a big armchair, crying bitterly.

"Why, Bessie," exclaimed the mother, taking the little one in her arms, "what in the world is the matter?"

"Somebody dreadful has happened," sobbed the youngster, nestling closer to her mother. "I—I—"

"That's all right, darling," coaxingly responded the mother. "Tell me all about it."

"It was my dolly," was the tearful explanation of Bessie. "She dot away from me and broke a dish in the pantry."—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

LOGICAL.

"What! You here again for money for a night's lodgin'? Why, I just gave you money for that purpose last night."
"I know it, mum; but a feller's gotter sleep more'n wunst."

50% More Mileage

In Boston, Green & Swett Co. watched the Miller records on some hundreds of large cars. They found that Millers increased the former tire mileage from 50% to 75%. They eliminated blow-out troubles. And only six tires in each 1,000 proved disappointing to the users.

$1,000 Daily To Reduce Your Tire Cost

The Miller Tire mileage, now discussed everywhere, is not an accident.

Over $1,000 daily is spent in tests and inspections. Fifty inspectors guard against defects.

Every lot of tread stock is first vulcanized and tested in the laboratory.

Over 1,000 tires yearly are worn out in factory mileage tests.

Every tire is signed by maker and inspector, and both are penalized if a tire falls down.

Highly-paid experts spend their years in making betterments.

Mark the results

The Miller Tire is now talked everywhere. It is today's sensation.

It is winning countless contests where a score of makes are brought into comparison.

In the factory tests—radical rear-wheel tests—Miller cords last year averaged 15,000 miles.

The new Miller treads, in these tests, outwear the best of others by 25%.

Defective Miller Tires are a rarity. Some large Miller dealers last year had not a single adjustment.

If you don't know these new-day tires you should find them out. They are saving millions of dollars to motorists.

Get one and watch it. It will give you new conceptions of a modern tire.
